

Michael T. Callahan

Michael T. Callahan is founder and president of CCL Construction Consultants Inc. CCL has an extensive list of over 1400 projects since 1986 with clients of attorneys, engineers, contractors, owners, insurance companies and sureties, and various government agencies. Mr. Callahan has extensive knowledge and experience in the analysis and resolution of construction claims, disputes, damages and delays, in addition to his expert knowledge of CPM project scheduling.

Mr. Callahan has co-authored several books on the subject of CPM scheduling in addition to being a co-author of books dealing with the construction disputes, claims, damages and arbitration: “Shared Design” 2012 - Aspen Publishers; “Termination of Construction Design Contracts” 2011 - Aspen Publishers; “Construction Change Order Claim” 2009 - Aspen Publishers; “Construction Delay Claims” 2008 - Aspen Publishers; “Procurement of Construction and Design Contracts” 2005 - Aspen Publishers; “Discovery in Construction Litigation” 2003 - LexisNexis; “Construction Schedules, The Analysis, Evaluation, and Interpretation of Schedules” 1998 - LexisNexis; “Construction Defect Claims and Litigation” 1995 - Wiley Law Publications; “Construction Project Scheduling” 1991 - McGraw-Hill; “Arbitration of Construction Disputes” 1990 - Wiley Law Publications; “The Law Behind Construction Schedules” 1981- Prentice Hall.

Mr. Callahan is a member of the American Bar Association (Public Contract Law, Litigation Section, Forum Committee on Construction Industry), American Arbitration Association (U.S. Construction Industry Advisory Committee), and is Past Adjunct Professor, School of Architectural Engineering, University of Kansas and Iowa State University.

Michael T. Callahan earned his J.D., School of Law, from the University of Missouri, followed by a LL.M., School of Law, from the University of Missouri and Temple University, Philadelphia