Report of Clinical Activities:

I maintain a clinical practice specializing in neuropsychology, clinical psychology and forensic neuropsychology for children and adults. Areas of specialization include neuropsychiatric, developmental disorders and forensic neuropsychology. I am a member of the Program in Psychiatry and the Law at Harvard Medical School, Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center where I am involved in collaborative projects.

Practice activities devoted to forensic neuropsychology involve consultation, evaluation, expert testimony and teaching. In the Program in Psychiatry and the Law, I contribute to program development, present case studies and participate in developing research investigating legal rights of disabled individuals. I teach and mentor graduate students. I subscribe to a scientist/practitioner model of service delivery and evidence based practice. I am involved in mentoring the scientific and clinical careers of women in clinical and forensic neuropsychology. Mentoring has included advising and supervising graduate students in diagnostic assessment, testing, research design, forensic evaluation, expert witness training and grant writing. I provide forensic consultation and evaluations to attorneys in civil cases where there is neurological injury with co-morbid psychiatric disorders. Consultation has also included teaching attorneys in continuing legal education lectures and seminars about assessment of damages in cases where individuals have sustained central nervous injury and the role of neuropsychology in forensic evaluations. I provide consultation and expert testimony in the areas of standard of care, psychological malpractice, wrongful injury and death in infants and children, product liability, workplace discrimination, fitness for duty following brain injury and/or psychiatric illness, return to work strategies, guardian and conservatorships, and toxic tort. My criminal practice focuses on evaluating defendants charge with capital crimes for neurodevelopmental and neuropsychiatric disorders. I have provided consultation in cases filed in state and federal courts.

I have consulted with Harvard University regarding workplace discrimination. I also consult with municipal governments regarding fitness for duty evaluations for public employees. I provide consultation to local educational agencies and early intervention programs regarding providing educational services for infants and children with developmental and psychiatric disorders.
